

Sea Ports & Shipping Companies

Requirements for Covert Operations

- Protection Buildings or Sites (Illegal Entry/Theft/Damage)
- Prevention of Fly Tipping
- Anti-Social Behaviour (Graffiti, Endangering Safety on Ship)
- Enforcement of Bylaws and Regulations
- Theft or Damage (Shipping Stock, Containers)

There are numerous reasons for Sea Ports and Shipping Companies to conduct Covert Operations in the course of their work, with the Prevention of Criminal Activity being a priority in reducing theft and Illegal immigration, which costs millions of vital funds and the provision of Public Health and Safety which could lead to Enforcement Action.

To be proficient, agents and employees of the Sea Ports and Shipping Companies require essential covert operational training and development, that develops the relevant theory and practical skills which will allow them to build a portfolio of evidence.

- Events, Demonstrations and Protests
- Violations of International Law
- Compound Theft
- Serious Organised Crime Activity

Theory and Practical Skills

- Covert Imagery and Camera Deployment
- Covert Investigation and Evidence Gathering Skills
- Intelligence and Operational Planning
- Risk and Threat Mitigation